

Olav Goelet
Owner & General Manager

Generational transition in ownership has provided Olav with an opportunity to have an active role in the management of Clos Du Val. As one of the six grandchildren of founder John Goelet, Olav has been a leader in a number of his family's ventures with a strong focus in strategic planning and management. Following an undergraduate degree in international relations and a masters degree in aquaculture management, Olav spent the last five years working for a notable oyster company in Massachusetts. As the Director of Farm and Hatchery Operations, Olav helped position the company for long term growth by expanding the production operations to key states. With a passion for agriculture, and the drive to help grow the family wine business, Olav joined Clos Du Val in December of 2018.
